Demo Advisory Council Adopts Bold Program

Civil Rights Action Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The shaping Democratic Advisory Council Sunday night called for "bold and comprehensive action" on a wide range of issues—civil rights included.

"Republican reaction, lethargy, and indecision of the past six years," the council said, "have allowed this nation to fall woefully behind in meeting the demands of the times."

The Democrats put together a program covering 24 specific points, and then broke those down into various detailed recommendations. They went considerably beyond the 12-point legislative worksheet drafted by Senate majority leader Lyndon Johnson.

Johnson omitted any action on civil rights from his program.

The advisory committee, with former President Truman and former presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson sitting in, declared that the Democratic Party "reaffirms its traditional belief in the dignity of each individual human being and that every citizen must be guaranteed his full rights and opportunities under the constitution."

The policy statement called for enactment of a section struck out of the 1957 civil rights law, so as to authorize the U.S. attorney general to start civil suits against anyone who deprives American citizens of "their rights to equal protection of the laws, on account of race, color, religion, or national origin."

In addition, the Democrats urged a revision of congressional procedures so as to make it easier to break down legislative roadblocks. It proposed that the Senate change its rules so that a majority of the membership can break off a filibuster. It urged "a liberalization and democratization" of House rules, which it said have operated to delay or block important, desirable measures. The chief target here, though an unnamed one, was the House Rules Committee.

This was the most comprehensive far reaching policy pronouncement ever issued by the advisory council. Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler said it was approved unanimously by the 18 members, out of a total of 24, in attendance Sunday—except for Southern dissents on civil rights and congressional procedures.

The Democrats urged such things as broadening the Social Security program, fighting inflation and the high cost of living, boosting the national minimum wage, putting through a housing program, and a constant review of the tax laws.

Prayers Offered At Pearl Harbor

PEARL HARBOR, T. H. (UPI) — The 17th anniversary of the Japanese attack was commemorated here Sunday but there were no orators at the ceremonies aboard the sunken USS Arizona.

Navy chaplains of three faiths offered prayers for the 1,102 men still entombed in the rusting hulk of the Arizona, and a dozen floral tributes were placed at the base of her flagstaff.

It was a Sunday morning, much like the one 17 years ago. A light breeze ruffled the surface of the harbor where oil from the Arizona's tanks still streaks the water.

The temperature was in the mid-60s, chilly for Hawaii, but a warm sun frequently broke through the patches of cloud that hung over the mountains behind Pearl Harbor.

Three-Day Star Strike Settled

WASHINGTON (AP)—A three-day strike of editors and commercial employees of the Washington Evening Star ended Sunday night with acceptance of a compromise contract settlement proposed by federal mediators.

Members of the Star unit of the Washington Newspaper Guild withdrew pickets after overwhelmingly ratifying the agreement.

The pact calls for a three-year contract with raises ranging from a low of $4 to a high of $7 a week in the first year, a range of increases from $2 to $4 in the second year, and from $2 to $3 in the third.

Sunday night shifts returned to work to get ready to publish regular evening editions Monday.

The agreement dated Dec. 8, 1958 runs to Dec. 8, 1961 and is retroactive to Sept. 22, 1958.

It calls for a reduction in the present 40-hour work week to 36 1/2 hours, or a 7 1/2-hour day, effective Feb. 1, 1959 and a further reduction to the 37 1/2-hour week, 7 1/2-hour day, on Dec. 8, 1959.

In addition, it was agreed that employees who are Guild members would remain so, as a condition of employment, for the life of the contract. This is called the irrevocable checkoff.

The newspaper did not publish Sunday or Saturday.

Ala. Officials Act To Stymie Rights Probe

Vote Registration Records, Sought By Agency, Impounded

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Alabama officials and grand juries are weaving a barrier of legal red tape around voting records the federal Civil Rights Commission has subpoenaed for its first public hearing Monday.

Records or no records, the commission planned to go ahead as scheduled with its investigation of charges that Negroes in six Alabama counties have been denied the right to vote.

The commission declined Sunday night to say what action it might take if voter registration officials refuse to produce their records.

Dean Robert G. Storey, vice chairman of the commission, told reporters at a news conference that the question of what to do if witnesses refuse to produce the records will be answered when that situation arises.

He explained that officially the federal agency had received no word that any witness might refuse to answer the subpoena to surrender the voting records.

Chairman Explains

The commission chairman, Dr. John A. Hannah, explained that the hearing will be merely a fact-finding procedure and nothing more. He and Storey said the agency will seek to learn only whether Negroes have been denied the right to vote because of their race without, as they expressed it, trying to determine "who is right and who is wrong."

Grand juries in three counties Saturday impounded voter registration records subpoenaed by the commission. Circuit Judge George Wallace earlier had impounded the records of Barbour and Bullock counties.

These actions left the new fact-finding commission with two alternatives:

1. Seek a federal court order to produce the files.
2. Hear testimony from complaining Negro witnesses and make no further effort to obtain the records.

Gordon Tiffany, staff director of the commission, declined comment on the impounding action by the grand jury. But a commission spokesman had said earlier that the hearings would proceed with or without voter records.

The commission has subpoenaed registration files from Dallas, Lowndes, Wilcox, Macon, Barbour and Bullock counties.

Jail Threat Voiced

After impounding the Barbour and Bullock records, Wallace said he will refuse to surrender them to the commission and will jail any commission agent who tries to get them.

Circuit Judge James A. Hare said voting records in Dallas and Wilcox counties were turned over to the county grand juries for investigations in the state courts.

Probate Judge Harrell Hammond confirmed that he turned over Lowndes County voter records to a grand jury Saturday.

In Macon County, Circuit Solicitor (prosecutor) Tom Young and Circuit Judge Will O. Walton conferred Saturday night on the possibility of calling a grand jury into session. Walton said no action was taken because he had no formal complaint. However, Alabama Atty. Gen. John Patterson has specifically instructed Macon County authorities not to surrender voter records to the Civil Rights Commission.

Integrationist Trio Victorious At Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The surprising victory of three Little Rock School Board candidates who were described as integrationists by Gov. Orval E. Faubus "may give courage to other people to stand up for their convictions," one of the defeated candidates said Sunday.

W. F. Rector, defeated by a pro-Faubus candidate by 316 votes, said he hoped the strong showing Saturday of the slate opposed by the governor would give people courage to speak their minds on any issue without fear.

The governor has not commented on the results.

Everett Tucker Jr., executive director of the Little Rock Industrial Development Co.; Ted L. Lamb, an advertising agency owner who handled the gubernatorial campaign for a Faubus opponent; and Russell H. Matson Jr., a Little Rock contractor, all won their races against opponents avowed to support Faubus' anti-integration stand.

This gave the slate of candidates opposed to the governor three victories out of five contested races—the sixth place was won by Ed I. McKinley Jr., who had no opposition.

Pro-Faubus candidates Robert W. Laster, a city traffic judge and Ben D. Rowland, an attorney, won slim victories. Laster edged Mrs. Charles Stephens, a housewife, by a margin of 81 votes in the complete unofficial count.

Mrs. Stephens has conceded her loss to C. C. Bailey, a pro-Faubus labor union candidate beaten by Matson with a 288-vote margin.

Both are awaiting official certification before commencing.

Three Killed In Crash Of Two Cars And Bus

KILLEEN, Tex. (AP)—Two auto and a bus collided near this central Texas town early Sunday, killing three persons and injuring four.

Authorities from nearby Ft. Hood said the dead, all Ft. Hood soldiers, were Sgt. Roy Welch, 26, of Waltersboro, S.C.; Recruit William McFadin, 21, of Fayetteville, N.C.; and Specialist I.C. Robert Kreteff, 26, of Clifton, N.Y.

They were all in the same car. State highway patrolman L. M. Hancock said their car collided head on with the bus, which was knocked out of control and then hit the second car.

No one aboard the bus was injured.

Official History Of Pioneer III

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is the official history of the Army space probe rocket, Pioneer III, as issued Sunday by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration:

Launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 12:45 a.m. (EST) Dec. 6. Time in flight, 38 hours, 6 minutes.

Time of re-entry into earth's atmosphere, 2:51 p.m. EST, Dec. 7. Velocity at re-entry, 23,000 m.p.h. plus.

Altitude when burned out, 55 miles (approximately).

Point over earth where burned out, 16.4 degrees north latitude, 18.6 degrees east longitude (over French Equatorial Africa, south of Libya).

Time of usable telemetry data received, about 22 hours.

Apogee, 66,654 miles above the surface of the earth.

Babysitter Held In Kidnap Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 19-year-old babysitter who is separated from her husband and child was arrested on a kidnapping charge by the FBI Sunday night for taking a 10-month-old girl away from her home here and into nearby Maryland.

The FBI said the girl, Mrs. Dolly Zirk, was taken into custody along with the baby, Victoria Anne Delosh, at a residence in nearby Mt. Rainier, Md., where she had accepted another babysitting job.

The baby will be returned to the father, Cyril Delosh, after it has been examined by a physician the FBI said. Delosh has identified the baby.

The FBI said Mrs. Zirk placed an ad in the papers last Friday for a babysitting job. Coy R. Burgess, of Bunker Hill, answered the ad and interviewed her.

Later, however, Mrs. Zirk called Burgess back and said she had accepted a similar job at the Deloshes'. Saturday morning, the FBI said, Mrs. Zirk called Burgess back again and said she could take his job and that she had a child of her own. She requested him to pick her up at 11 a.m. on Saturday at the Deloshes', which he did, the FBI said.

The FBI said it worked closely with the Washington police and through information obtained from them, went to the Burgess address and found Mrs. Zirk there.

TWA Resumes Regular Flight Schedule Today

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The first Trans World Airlines planes to fly since a machinists strike was called Nov. 21 took off from Los Angeles and Kansas City Sunday and the airline said it should have 83 per cent of its operations resumed Monday.

The flights Sunday, plus another planned from New York to Europe late Sunday, were to distribute crew members to other stations.

TWA said its first commercial flight would leave New York shortly after midnight, flying non-stop to Los Angeles. Another east-west flight is scheduled to stop at Kansas City Monday en route from New York to the West Coast.

Most of TWA's other 208 daily domestic flights also were to resume Monday, with the airline hoping to be back in 100 per cent operation domestically by Tuesday.

The airline operations had been at a complete halt during a 16-day machinists strike that resulted in 19,000 persons being furloughed without pay. The union announced Saturday that its members had voted to accept a new contract, worked out by federal mediators.

The contract provides a 44-cent an hour pay increase for mechanics, making their salary $2.95 an hour.

TWA said two-thirds of its international schedule will operate Wednesday serving London, Paris, Frankfurt, Switzerland, Rome, Athens and Cairo. The European and Far East-bound flights are expected to be completely restored by Wednesday, with west-bound flights from Europe to New York scheduled to resume Tuesday.

Writs attaching the 7,114-ton liner and her cargo for more than a million dollars in debts were posted on the foremast within minutes after the vessel docked here.

The passengers were told they would be flown the rest of the

'Primary' Objective Achieved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's gold-plated Pioneer III plunged to a fiery death 55 miles above North Africa at 2:51 p.m. EST Sunday.

The two-foot-long, 13-pound nose cone was tracked to a height of 66,654 miles before the force of the earth's gravity whisked it back from its probe of outer space.

At the high point, about 9 p.m. EST Saturday night, it had slowed to a few hundred miles per hour. But once arced downward, its speed revved to an estimated 23,300 m.p.h. as it dived on the jungles of north-central Africa.

Pushing through the earth's atmosphere at that terrific rate, its gold outer skin and then the rest of it disintegrated in the fierce heat generated by friction.

Shortly after 3 p.m. EST Sunday the Army's Jet Propulsion Laboratory announced: "Burn out at 2:51."

Primary Goal Achieved

Maj. Gen. John P. Medaris, chief of the Army's missile command, declared the shot "completely successful" in achieving its primary objective—to record the depth of the deadly radiation band around the earth.

He said it failed to reach its secondary goal—to skirt the moon and orbit the sun—for two reasons: it went too slow and was off course. He said its fuel shut off three seconds too soon, so its velocity failed to exceed the 24,900 m.p.h. needed to clear the earth's main gravitational pull. He also said it took off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 12:45 a.m. Saturday tilted 3 1/2 degrees from its intended flight path.

Medaris told CBS radio-TV interviewers—"Face the Nation"—the rocket design will be analyzed and its control system slightly revamped. Another try is at least a month away, he said, adding "See me after Christmas."

'Outstripping' Russians

The general said he hoped a man could be put into space in less than three years. He said he was confident U.S. space progress was outstripping that of the Soviet Union and, "We know how to do anything the Russians know how to do."

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the rocket fell at 16.4 degrees north, 18.6 degrees east. That would place it above northern French Equatorial Africa.

The space agency said its Puerto Rican station lost contact with the rocket at about 2:30 p.m. EST when it was 2,000 miles above the earth.

After that, officials said, the cone swooped down at an angle of about 18.6 degrees traveling at about 23,000 m.p.h. Its vertical descent, however, was at about 8,000 m.p.h.

Moscow Announces Sputnik Rocket Death

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio announced Sunday the rocket carrier of Russia's Sputnik III burned up last Wednesday after traveling more than 80 million miles in orbit around the earth.

The broadcast said the rocket completed 2,907 circuits of the globe in the seven months since it shot a satellite into space. The area where it dived to destruction was not specified. Some Western scientists believe it was in the South Pacific.

Russian Plan Buried Under Record Vote

Communists Fail To Win Single Seat In City Parliament

BERLIN, Monday (AP) — West Berlin voters early Monday solidly rejected the Soviet Union's bid to make West Berlin a neutral city by swamping the Communists in the election of a new city parliament.

Defying Communist threats to the isolated city, West Berliners turned out in record numbers to bar the Reds completely from the 133-seat parliament.

Unofficial final returns from Sunday's vote showed the Communists had picked up only 1.96 per cent of the vote.

The balloting doomed Communist hopes for popular endorsement of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposal to oust Allied troops from West Berlin and convert the city into an unarmed neutral island.

Khrushchev himself has conceded his plan had little chance "unless the people want it themselves."

Brandt Hails Outcome

Willy Brandt, the city's fighting Socialist lord mayor, hailed the smashing non-Communist vote.

"Berlin remains free," he declared. "The people have said decisively they will never bow to the yoke of communism."

Brandt led his party to an absolute majority victory over the Christian Democrats of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The unofficial final returns from 1,860 voting districts gave this breakdown of the popular vote:

Socialists	839,193 (52.29 per cent)
Christian Democrats	608,673 (37.93)
Free Democrats	61,026 (3.8)
German party	53,862 (3.36)
Free Peoples party	10,589 (0.66)
Communists	31,470 (1.96)

The number of Parliament seats each party gets will be worked out later on the basis of election formulas, but the Communists would have to win five per cent of the vote to seat a single candidate. They have never won a parliamentary seat in West Berlin.

77 Seats For Socialists

Unofficial calculations indicated the Socialists will seat 77 members in Parliament, the Christian Democrats 56 and the other parties will be shut out.

The Communists were trampled in the vote surge despite the biggest election campaign they have staged and the backing of the Russians and East German propaganda machines.

Non-Communist parties had urged a big turnout to respond to the Soviet threats against the city.

Anticipating a devastating defeat, the Communists cried foul from the start.

Early Monday the East German Communist news agency and radio began explaining away the Red defeat by charging there was a "wave of Fascist terror and brutal police suppression in West Berlin."

93.7 Per Cent Turnout

Brandt, in a TV speech, declared the defeat of the Communists could not be overlooked in Moscow.

Brandt pledged cooperation with the Christian Democrats of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer but said the matter of continuing a coalition government of the city would have to be discussed.

Ernst Lemmer, Adenauer's Minister for all-German affairs and the Christian Democrat candidate for lord mayor, conceded victory to the Socialists.

He said there can be policy differences in West Germany between the two big parties "but here in Berlin we cannot afford to be split."

West Berlin residents responded for a record vote with a 93.7 per cent turnout. In 1954 the turnout was 91.8 per cent.

There were 1,757,152 eligible voters.

The liner sailed from New York Nov. 21 for a cruise to Caribbean ports, with a financial cloud hanging overhead. She was allowed to set out only after posting a $40,000 bond.

Writs served by Bermuda police listed among big creditors Esso Standard Oil of Switzerland, $918,000 for fuel and other supplies, and Caltex of Switzerland, $364,000.

The passengers were told they would be flown the rest of the way home in chartered planes as soon as possible.

Maj. Gen. John P. Medaris, chief of the Army's missile command, declared the shot "completely successful" in achieving its primary objective—to record the depth of the deadly radiation band around the earth.

He said it failed to reach its secondary goal—to skirt the moon and orbit the sun—for two reasons: it went too slow and was off course. He said its fuel shut off three seconds too soon, so its velocity failed to exceed the 24,900 m.p.h. needed to clear the earth's main gravitational pull. He also said it took off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 12:45 a.m. Saturday tilted 3½ degrees from its intended flight path.

Medaris told CBS radio-TV interviewers: "Face the Nation"—the rocket design will be analyzed and its control system slightly revamped. Another try is at least a month away, he said, adding "See me after Christmas."

"Outstripping" Russians

The general said he hoped a man could be put into space in sooner than three years. He said he was confident U.S. space progress was outstripping that of the Soviet Union and "We know how to do anything the Russians know how to do."

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the rocket fell at 16.4 degrees north, 18.6 degrees east. That would place it above northern French Equatorial Africa.

The space agency said its Puerto Rican station lost contact with the rocket at about 2:30 p.m. EST when it was 2,000 miles above the earth.

After that, officials said, the cone swooped down at an angle of about 18.5 degrees traveling at about 23,000 m.p.h. Its vertical descent, however, was at about 8,000 m.p.h.

Anticipating a devastating defeat, the Communists cried foul from the start.

Early Monday the East German Communist news agency and radio began explaining away the Red defeat by charging there was a "wave of Fascist terror and brutal police suppression in West Berlin."

77 Seats For Socialists

Unofficial calculations indicated the Socialists will seat 77 members in Parliament, the Christian Democrats 56 and the other parties will be shut out.

The Communists were trampled in the vote surge despite the biggest election campaign they have staged and the backing of the Russians and East German propaganda machines.

Non-Communist parties had urged a big turnout to respond to the Soviet threats against the city.

Ernst Lemmer, Adenauer's Minister for all-German affairs and the Christian Democrat candidate for lord mayor, conceded victory to the Socialists.

He said there can be policy differences in West Germany between the two big parties "but here in Berlin we cannot afford to be split."

West Berlin residents responded for a record vote with a 93.7 per cent turnout. In 1954 the turnout was 91.8 per cent.

There were 1,757,152 eligible voters.

Prayers Offered At Pearl Harbor

PEARL HARBOR, T. H. (UPI) —The 17th anniversary of the Japanese attack was commemorated here Sunday but there were no orators at the ceremonies aboard the sunken USS Arizona.

Navy chaplains of three faiths offered prayers for the 1,102 men still entombed in the rusting bulk of the Arizona, and a dozen floral tributes were placed at the base of her flagstaff.

It was a Sunday morning, much like the one 17 years ago. A light breeze ruffled the surface of the harbor where oil from the Arizona's tanks still streaks the water.

The temperature was in the mid-60s, chilly for Hawaii, but a warm sun frequently broke through the patches of cloud that hung over the mountains behind Pearl Harbor.

Three-Day Star Strike Settled

WASHINGTON (AP)—A three-day strike of editorial and commercial employees of the Washington Evening Star ended Sunday night with acceptance of a compromise contract settlement proposed by federal mediators.

Members of the Star unit of the Washington Newspaper Guild withdrew pickets after overwhelmingly ratifying the agreement.

The pact calls for a three-year contract with raises ranging from a low of $4 to a high of $7 a week in the first year, a range of increases from $2 to $4 in the second year, and from $2 to $3 in the third.

Sunday night shifts returned to work to get ready to publish regular evening editions Monday. The agreement dated Dec. 8, 1958 runs to Dec. 8, 1961 and is retroactive to Sept. 22, 1958.

It calls for a reduction in the present 40-hour work week to 38½ hours, or a 7½-hour day, effective Feb. 1, 1959 and a further reduction to the 37½-hour week, 7½-hour day, on Dec. 8, 1959.

In addition, it was agreed that employees who are Guild members would remain so, as a condition of employment, for the life of the contract. This is called the irrevocable checkoff.

The newspaper did not publish Sunday or Saturday.

Soviets Unveil Plan To Prevent Sneak Attacks

LONDON (AP) — The Russians Sunday night publicly offered to allow watchdog control posts inside the Iron Curtain within a worldwide network to prevent sneak armed attacks—but they attacked two conditions.

One condition called for scaling down by a third the strength of foreign armies in Europe; the other demanded a ban on all nuclear weapons in West and East Germany.

The Soviet proposals were presented to the Geneva conference 10 days ago, Moscow radio said in giving the details for the first time.

The Geneva discussions are private. Earlier, Western sources disclosed the Russians had put forward a plan but described it then as too politically loaded for a conference intended to discuss only technical measures for prevention of surprise attacks.

The Soviet plan, as outlined by Moscow radio, called for 54 control posts to be set up in Western territory and 28 behind the Iron Curtain in a global network extending from the United States through Europe to the western sectors of Russia and down through the Middle East. Six of the control posts would be in the United States and six in the Soviet Union.

The system would be backed up by aerial inspection zones stretching 500 miles on either side of the Iron Curtain. The zones would also include Japan, Greece, Turkey and Iran.

The Russian proposals called for control posts at railroad junctions, big ports and on highways in 19 countries. The countries are Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, Italy, West Germany, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania, Greece, Turkey, Iran, the western border regions of the Soviet Union and the eastern coast of the United States.

Secret Service Reports Counterfeiting Upsurge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Counterfeiters are doing their Christmas shopping early this year.

The Secret Service disclosed Sunday it has uncovered 132 new issues of bogus bills since July, eight of them during the past week.

Most were rounded up before they got into circulation. But $120,000 worth was seized in circulation between July and October, compared with $443,000 during the previous 12 months.

U. E. Baughman, chief of the Secret Service, said it all added up to a steady increase in counterfeiting over the past 18 months. He warned merchants and others who handle money to watch out for phony currency as the Christmas shopping rush heightens.

Baughman said counterfeiting reaches a seasonal peak at Christmas, when stores are crowded, shoppers and clerks hurried and many retail counters manned by inexperienced temporary workers.

He said that, between July 1 and Oct. 31, the Secret Service seized $947,000 in counterfeit currency, in and out of circulation.

He said counterfeiters are having more success in bilking the public. He attributed this to advances in photoengraving equipment which permit less experienced counterfeiters to turn out more realistic bills.

The Secret Service urged money handlers to study genuine currency so they can spot phony bills more easily.

Fires Damage Two Baltimore Schools

By The Associated Press

Baltimore had its second school fire in as many days Sunday when fire of unknown origin damaged Hampstead Hill Junior High School in East Baltimore.

On Saturday, two costly fires swept through a restaurant at Jessup and a schoolhouse in South Baltimore.

The Sunday fire was confined to a classroom and teacher's room of the school at Eastern and Linwood Avenues. Firemen fought the fire about an hour at the three-story brick school.

Fire Lt. Willard Warehime narrowly escaped serious injury when he climbed through a window and plunged through a hole in the floor that he didn't see because of the smoke. He broke his fall by grabbing a pipe.

Investigators said they had not ruled out arson.

The more serious school fire Saturday, a six-alarm blaze battled by scores of firemen with 23 pieces of equipment, burned out the wooden interior of an 81-year-old brick school building.

An arson inspector said the fire apparently started in a defective electric motor which was part of the heating system. Capt. Harry R. Ballman said the fire could have been smoldering since classes were dismissed Friday.

A school official said the students would be transferred to nearby schools, although it probably would mean setting up extra

Two Navy Men Lost While Deer Hunting Found

LEXINGTON PARK, Md. (AP)—A couple of Navy men who found a land lubber's world a bit confusing were located Sunday after being lost in woods more than 24 hours.

But at that, they turned out to be pretty fair woodsmen.

AE3 Donald Shearer, 21, of Springfield, N. Y., and AN Robert Zible, 19, of Red Wing, Minn., got off course Saturday while deer hunting.

When they discovered they were lost they decided to stay put. They built a lean-to and started a fire to protect them from the sub-freezing temperatures. Then they sat down to wait the dawn, figuring they could get their bearings when the sun came up.

A search for them was called off late Saturday night. Sunday a 30-man party plus a helicopter and a light plane resumed the hunt.

Spotting the helicopter, the lost men tossed wet leaves on their fire to send up smoke. The "cop" didn't see them.

They heard some of the searchers in the woods and shouted, but to no avail. Finally, they fired a gun and were soon located.

The search party saw all kinds of small game and even a deer during the hunt for the men. The lost hunters saw nothing.

They had become lost in a seven-by-two mile wooded area north of the Patuxent Naval Air base where both are stationed.

At no time were they more than a mile from a highway.

Janitor Fleeing Robber Crashes Through Door

WASHINGTON (AP)—A fast-moving janitor didn't let a locked glass door stop his flight from a robber Saturday. He went right through the door.

A doctor closed Smith's knee, arm and ear cuts with 30 stitches.

Report Draws McKeldin Fire

BALTIMORE (AP)—The suggestion that the governor has put his personal preference above the public interest in backing public works projects has roused a strong rebuttal from Gov. McKeldin.

McKeldin said he found distasteful some of the things mentioned by a Harvard University professor who studied the State Planning Commission.

The Republican chief executive said in a statement Saturday, "I find quite distasteful Prof. Key's suggestion that governors are inclined to push projects of ill-considered public improvements in response to pressures because they are 'dear to his (the governor's) heart' rather than in the public interest."

"I find even more distasteful Prof. Key's advice that the Planning Commission should take on the responsibility to educate successive governors in the avoidance of such 'inspiration of the gubernatorial moment.'"

McKeldin contended this "smacks of bureaucracy at its worst" and would make the governor a mere figurehead or front for the commission.

Missile Base Guards Beat Back Pacifists

SWAFFHAM, England (AP)—A score of pacifist demonstrators invaded a top secret missile base again Sunday but police again beat off their attempt to stop construction work on launching pads.

The demonstrators broke through the barbed wire perimeter just before dawn and marched through the mud toward the giant concrete mixer where they were manhandled and drenched by fire hoses Saturday.

The demonstrators are members of a pacifist group known as the Direct Action Committee Against Nuclear War. Last summer they organized a much-publicized march on the British atomic weapons research center at Aldermaston.

Missiles Could Deliver Troops, Von Braun Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army missile expert Wernher von Braun said Sunday the United States could use missiles now available to carry troops a couple of hundred miles.

The German-born scientist said, "We think the ballistic missile is a very suitable form of transportation."

"The missile should not be looked upon just as an artillery weapon, but as a means of delivery that may deliver not only bombs but also people or cargo."

Asked if there was a program for transporting troops by ballistic rockets and how far such a program had progressed, Von Braun said: "The program isn't too active yet and I think we still have a lot of selling and convincing to do even within the Army before people are willing to accept the ballistic missile as a means of transportation."

How soon could we get a ballistic rocket carrier?

"We could use missiles that we have right now and fire people with them a couple of hundred miles."

Is this a job for the Air Force?

"I think whenever a certain service needs certain tools to do a job within the over-all mission of that service it should not be denied those tools."

Von Braun, in an NBC-radio-television interview — "Meet The Press"—did not elaborate on his statement that available rockets could be used to transport troops.

Von Braun said he still held to his earlier view that the United States would be in mortal danger if the Russians first gained control of outer space.

State's Weekend Traffic Death Toll Reaches Five

By The Associated Press

Three fatalities Sunday, one in Southern Maryland and the other two in Baltimore, raised Maryland's highway death toll for the weekend to five.

Eleven-year-old Shirley Declaf of Baltimore, one of two girls hit by what police said was a hit-and-run car, died about 8:30 p.m. in St. Joseph's Hospital of her injuries.

In Calvert County, T. Robert Jones, Negro, of Hughesville, was killed in an accident about 5:30 p. m. on Maryland 231 between Barstow and Prince Frederick. A deputy medical examiner pronounced him dead at the scene.

Other weekend victims included:

George E. Petersen, 34, a Navy chief petty officer stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C., killed early Saturday in a collision on the Baltimore - Washington Expressway near the Kenilworth interchange.

Fred Pixley of Baltimore, who died just before midnight Saturday of a fractured skull received when a car in which he was riding veered off the road and crashed into a tree about four miles from Laurel, near the Patuxent River bridge.

Nearly 200 firemen from 11 communities battled sub-freezing weather when fire destroyed the restaurant on Maryland 175 near the Baltimore-Washington Expressway.

Volunteer firemen were hampered by a lack of hydrants in the Jessup area and had to wait on water wagons from Arnold and Friendship International Airport.

Damages were estimated at $55,000. The blaze apparently started in a first floor dining area in the northwest corner of the three-story building, State Police Sgt. Garland R. Walters said.

Bombing Trial Jury Resumes

ATLANTA (UPI)—The case of George Bright, charged with bombing a Jewish temple here, may be decided Monday when the jury resumes its deliberations.

Bright, a 31-year-old industrial engineer, is the first of five men indicted for the Oct. 12 temple bombing to stand trial.

Bright spent five hours and 52 minutes on the witness stand Saturday, testifying without being under oath and without threat of cross-examination. His lengthy discourse delayed completion of arguments until late Saturday night.

The jury had been out 47 minutes when Judge Durwood Pyle ordered the jury locked until 9:30 a. m. Monday, to comply with Georgia law prohibiting Sunday jury duty.

If the jury finds Bright guilty it could mean the electric chair. A "guilty with mercy" verdict would mean life imprisonment.

Here's the gist of the matter: When a depositor maintains a balance large enough to produce earnings that offset the cost of the checking service that he or she uses, charges are avoided. A depositor who prefers to carry a smaller balance pays moderate charges to cover the expenses involved in servicing his or her account. A clay ash tray, shaped by childish hands and a heart full of love? A calendar sticky with glue and March for the first month?

These are truly precious gifts—proudly given, tenderly received. Small tokens of a child's great love. And a father's love for his child—how is that expressed? By a pile of gifts under the tree, a ride on Daddy's shoulders, a mended airplane.

Perhaps the surest measure of a father's love is something he may never see in use—his life insurance.

Life insurance is the year-round promise of fulfilling the hopes of both parents and child.

U.S., Russia Allies In War On Disease

EDITOR'S NOTE: Sen. Hubert effort against disease. Fortunately, H. Humphrey, of Minnesota, who, too, after a long absence, the had an eight-hour conference with Soviet Union and other Eastern countries re-joined the World Health Organization and are now United Press International on participating actively in its various splendid efforts.

By Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey
Written for UPI

An intensified world-wide war is going to be waged by the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

This is a special kind of "war" which will be welcomed by mankind. It is a war which can bring happiness to the entire globe because it will be fought peacefully to prolong life rather than destroy it. It will protect man against his universal enemy—disease—with all its suffering and premature death.

Best of all is the fact that the non-Communist and the Communist nations are allies in this common struggle. As they fight shoulder to shoulder against disease, stronger bonds of understanding may be established between East and West. This in turn may help forestall the one terrible possibility which mankind dreads above all—the possibility of a real war—a "hot" war—a nuclear hydrogen holocaust which could devastate the globe and reduce it to radioactive rubble.

In the war against disease, the United States, the USSR, the United Kingdom and other principal scientific centers are in the forefront.

Russian Efforts Foreseen

Russia will, I believe, greatly increase its efforts. I base this conclusion on an eight-hour interview which I have just had with the premier of the USSR, Nikita S. Khrushchev. Not less than one-fourth of the time I spent with him was devoted to the subject of what I call the highly successful cooperation to unlock the mysteries of disease. His reaction was spontaneous and favorable.

Highest priority in the United States-USSR war is expected to be given to the number one and number two universal killers—heart disease and cancer. Other killing and crippling diseases which strike down Russians, Americans or individuals of any other nation include arthritis and rheumatism, neurological and mental disorders, allergies and infectious diseases and a host of other blights. Last year, for example, cancer alone killed almost a quarter of a million Russians and an almost equal number of Americans.

Fortunately, against such scourges medical science has always been international. Politicians in the Eastern and Western worlds may have wrangled, but there has always been at least some medical exchange program a vital link between scientists of all nationalities engaged in the common

Task Is Great

One of the most promising phases of the struggle which will now be greatly intensified is that we will be better able to help the so-called "developing" one-third of the world, I refer to the millions of individuals in Asia, Africa, the Middle East and South America, who so often are the prey of infectious diseases. Most such diseases have long since been conquered or minimized in countries enjoying higher standards of living and medical service. Examples of maladies still scourging the undeveloped countries such as India, the United Arab Republic and most African countries are malaria, tuberculosis, yaws, trachoma, and other avoidable diseases.

Premier Khrushchev throughout his responses to my proposals was cordial and approving of a U.S.-Soviet counter-offensive against disease. My proposals included a greatly expanded exchange program with U.S. and Soviet scientists visiting and working in each other's laboratories and hospitals. I urged also more international symposia, widened circulation of medical articles, increased personal contacts between individual scientists through letters and visits.

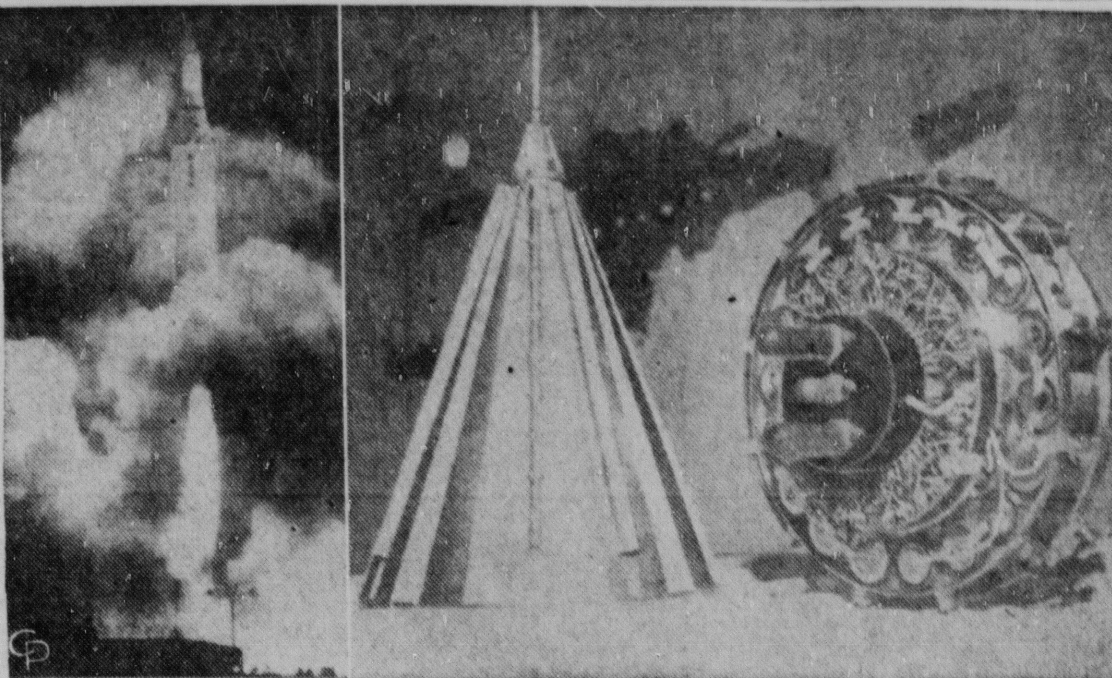

In addition, the premier indicated eagerness to follow through on plans which both countries are advancing for the proclamation of an "International Public Health and Medical Research Year." This is expected to be a 12 to 18 month period, possibly commencing in June of 1961 in a manner somewhat akin to the highly successful International Geophysical Year. Its purpose would be to stimulate the most intensified single period in the history of man for research against disease.

Widespread Enthusiasm Found
The World Health Assembly meeting in May is to take up this proposal, and all indications are that plans for it will be carried out.

One particular new program which I recommended to Premier Khrushchev and which he accepted readily is for a bold new program of research into problems of human life before birth.

I am delighted to report that every single diplomatic leader with whom I have discussed the health for peace program has, like Premier Khrushchev, been enthusiastic in reaction. For example, the United Kingdom's foreign minister, Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, against one another, but there has always been at least some medical exchange program a vital link between scientists of all nationalities engaged in the common

PEACEFUL ATOMS GO BOOKISH

At an expenditure of $1,270,000, covering only paper and printing costs, the United Nations plans to publish 33 volumes covering the entire field of knowledge accumulated to date on the peaceful uses of atomic energy. Each book will run to 500 pages. The first set, in English, is being offered to subscribers at $435. Later editions will be available to the public, at $490. Abridged versions in French, Spanish, and Russian will also be published, priced at $190. To maintain the time schedule for printing, the work has been divided among five countries — Britain, France, Switzerland, Canada and the United States.

By a health-for-peace program, if it is faithfully carried out, we may begin to thaw at least one segment of the cold war. This program, it should be noted, should be supplemented with food for peace, loans for peace, schools for peace, and other constructive works in the interest of mankind.

However, Ridder said it would be well if organizations not contacted, as well as individuals, notify him or William F. Miller if they have a family in mind that deserves a basket.

Ridder urged that groups planning to distribute baskets themselves notify him or Miller of the names of the recipients in order to avoid duplication. United Charities has opened an office on the first floor of the Moose building on East Street.

"Communities that come under the scope of United Charities include Keyser, Elk Garden, Ridgeley, Short Gap, Wiley Ford and Burlington.

Ridder said that the names of families recommended to receive baskets should be submitted December 10. Information should include the name, address and number in the family, and the ages and sex of any children.

Russia Fears The 'Subversive' Truth

The United States does not jam Communist propaganda broadcasts. Those who have good short wave sets can pick up Radio Moscow almost any night and listen to its fulminations against the "crimes" of the "American capitalist-imperialist aggressors."

The United States permits the sale of domestic Communist publications, and even of foreign ones. It places no ban on the use of these Communist publications in libraries and universities.

The United States has confidence in its strength, in the rightness of its cause, in the power of truth to compete victoriously with falsehood in the open market.

Russia has no such confidence. Though she prates about opening channels of communication between peoples, she maintains the iron curtain. Conducting the vastest political campaign in history, she fears letting her people hear more than one side of any story.

In the UN Special Political Committee the other day, an American delegate proposed that Russia, if she wants to show the sincerity of her words about better understanding between the Russian and American people, should do what America has been doing—refrain from jamming foreign broadcasts, permit the free sale of foreign newspapers and magazines and their use in libraries and universities, avoid harassing and censoring foreign newsmen.

The Russian delegate said this proposal was "cheap propaganda" and a vicious cold war maneuver. Russia has nuclear bombs to answer military aggression, he said, and jamming to take care of "subversion."

She has, indeed. She is using 2,500 transmitters to jam foreign broadcasts, at a cost of $100 million a year. What could be more damning than the admission of the Soviet delegate—that he represents a government which fears for its life if the truth, the subversive truth, is permitted to leak through?

Teachers' Pay

The American people can have as competent or as incompetent a school system as they pay for. They can have a cheap school system or a correctly priced school system. In this case, I do not figure fancy buildings, with Grecian urns that collect rubbish and landscaping that serves no purpose. A school building can look like a factory, but if the quality of the teaching is high, the marking tough, the students disciplined and the teachers sufficiently paid the children will be benefited. Teachers must be employed full time and should be accountable to the school system for their time on an annual basis. That time may include periods of additional study.

Eugene A. Meyer, a reader, writes me as follows:

"Your intelligence took a count of ten when you stated, better pay makes better teachers. How can more money make a person a better person than what they are? And how can you honestly figure a teacher on a fifty-two week year basis when they actually work on the average of forty weeks a year."

The receipt of more money does not improve the person, but it might attract more competent men and women to the job. When a stenographer can receive more money than a teacher and only has to put up with one tough guy, her boss, instead of a daily mob of hell raisers, the young lady goes into an office instead of into a school. The shortage of teachers is not accidental; it is the result of a school. The shortage of teachers is not accidental; it is the result of a cause, and that cause is too little pay in a competitive world. If there is no money to pay teachers more and to build more buildings, some of which may not be needed, the proposition is sound that we can do without the buildings.

Meyer's contention that a teacher is a part-time worker, getting paid for 52 weeks and working only 40 weeks is, of course, nonsense.

To be of value, a teacher must have time to read and study. In those schools, where the merit system prevails, teachers who have an M. A. are paid more than those who have a B.A. The same is true of a Ph. D. In a word, the teachers who devote themselves to systematic study in a university benefit by it.

Those who attend summer sessions at universities will find that a very large part of the student body are teachers who give of their time to improve themselves and therefore to be more useful to their pupils.

Teachers in elementary grades should, and many do, take trips about the United States or Europe, which while it is pleasant work, is also a tremendous advantage to the pupils, who learn from their teachers what the world is like. The teacher needs to be broad-minded and the child must feel that the teacher is an experienced and broad-minded person.

Money will not solve all problems. The standards for employing teachers ought to be raised. Tenure should not protect the decreasingly competent. Teachers who have unfortunately suffered from breakdowns or other psychiatric difficulties should be eliminated from the school system in the interest of the child. But there can be no reason for a teacher earning less than a stenographer or than a model for a dressmaker.

I recently needed to employ some additional help and girls applied who had studied at our best colleges. They might have made excellent teachers, but the profession seems to have lost caste among these young ladies. First of all, they dislike the substitute system which has become a trick to avoid granting job security. Secondly, they find that the pay is less than they can get on other jobs.

Thirdly, they are afraid, physically afraid, of undisciplined children and I might also say, undisciplined parents who come into school buildings to give the teachers a bad time because their children cannot differentiate between a classroom and the school yard. It is a very tough job in the elementary years particularly as many parents add to teachers' troubles.

Many parents believe that the impudence of children should go unpunished. It is not long before the child who is impudent to the teacher is impudent to the parent. The condoning parent usually has a very bad time and deserves it. Her wailings do not help the teacher, however, who is paid to teach and not to police errant kids.

Will Brain Trusters Bring Back The New Deal?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Back to the New Deal! That's the new slogan.

It assumes that the nation has forgotten all about the catastrophe of the 1920s, when spending was unlimited and yet failed after seven years to reduce the unemployment figure below 9,000,000 in 1939. This was finally remedied only by the outbreak of the war in Europe.

Unsound economics is being advocated again as the battle impends in the next Congress between the "spenders" and the "savers." This is a classification which doesn't follow party lines—there are "spenders" in the Republican as well as Democratic ranks in the North. The "savers" get their strength mainly from the South and from some conservative Republicans in the North.

The reminders of the New Deal are becoming more and more evident every day. They are to be found not only in the press releases of some of the "spenders" in Congress but in the legislative program just announced by the "Americans for Democratic Action," which pooh-poos inflationary dangers and promises unbounded prosperity by spending more each year than the government collects in taxes. The ADA, in a lengthy statement sent to all Senators and Representatives, calls enthusiastically for a "New New Deal."

The nostalgia isn't confined to Congress, either. It seems to have burst forth also from the sacred realm of the Supreme Court. Just after the November election, Justice William O. Douglas, in a speech at the Columbia University Law School in New York City, said:

"There was a time when the intelligentsia flocked to Washington to man the bastions. Those days may come again. At present the bulk of our elite are turning elsewhere for adventure and livelihood. Washington, D. C., and the state capitals get few of the new recruits. This is commonly attributed to the high financial returns in other lines of endeavor. That plays a part, but in my view only a minor one. The real reasons involve intangibles. One is the severe scourge given to the public service in recent years from those who, marching under the banner of Americanism, have hunted down the nonconformist as well as the subversive.

"There are numerous other reasons why the climate in the nation's capital that prevailed for example in the 1930s has never quite been restored. One chief task ahead is to recreate the conditions that make a career with government an exciting life."

One wonders who were the members of the intellectual "elite" that were scared away from Washington in recent years and why. Did they have something in their past associations which they were ashamed to reveal? Why would anyone refrain from coming to work in the government—and get "clearance"—if he really had nothing to hide? Such a blanket indictment of the intellectual "elite" seems a little severe. For, while there may have been isolated cases of a guilty conscience, it doesn't seem plausible that it took on the proportions of a mass boycott of government service.

Possibly among the real reasons the "elite" have been re-

Communication Difficulty In Stroke Patients

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A high degree of mental processing is needed to transform a printed word or sentence into a concept that is fully understood and stored for future use. It also is an achievement to change an idea into words or written expressions.

The human switchboard that controls these faculties is located in the dominant cerebral hemisphere deep in the brain. When this power is damaged by stroke or injury, the victim loses the ability to understand or express the written or spoken language (aphasia). It is a terrifying experience.

An English professor had a stroke, and when he tried to speak, a scramble of jargon emerged. But he retained the ability to write and was able to communicate with his family in this way. Inability to speak was a blow to the professor, because a lifetime of learning to talk properly was lost in a moment.

Another man developed aphasia that affected his comprehension of the written and spoken word. He could not understand what he read or what he heard. After recovery, he likened the condition to finding the morning paper printed in Chinese and the remarks of his wife

"senselessly garbled."

The switchboard of a highly educated man and woman is much more complex than that of a less well informed person. It is loaded with codings, references, and associations. Thus even a small lesion in that part of the brain causes more deprivation than a larger lesion in an illiterate person, whose language ability is limited. Small talk may be retained but not the language that conveys ideas and deep thoughts, witty statements, and abstract thinking.

Deaf mutes who suffer from aphasia following stroke are likely to be deprived of the power to do finger spelling. Congenitally blind aphasics no longer can read by Braille. In both cases the skills must be relearned.

Suez Canal where two Soviet subs waited brazenly to escort it.

By the time the Essex finally showed up, the crisis had cooled off. The big carrier steamed around defiantly for 12 days, then quietly departed the Far East.

The Army was even slower responding to the crisis. A month after a Nike battalion had been ordered to Formosa, it still hadn't reached the port of embarkation in the United States.

Yet the Army and Navy have been beating the drums about their mobility to fight small wars. Of the American firepower that was mustered to meet the Formosa crisis, the Navy supplied less than 10 per cent. The crisis was over before the Army got any significant reinforcements into the area.

Headlines And Footnotes

Negro leaders are planning to campaign next for integration of public housing. They will argue that federally financed housing should not be segregated. They will also complain to President Eisenhower that his housing boss, Albert Cole, is supporting segregation. . . . New York's defeated Gov. Averell Harriman claims he'll sit in Albany during Nelson Rockefeller's first legislative session to see "that these fellows do what they promised to do."

White House aides have been searching the government for jobs to be given defeated Republicans. Secretary of the Navy Tom Gates may be asked to resign to make room for a lame duck. Several lesser jobs, including ambassadorships, will be juggled. . . . The Russians are having trouble with their jet airliners. The American Embassy has learned that the recent crash of a 65-passenger Soviet jet liner was the third such tragedy. . . . Air Force has not been able to confirm the report that the Russians have fired a space rocket beyond the moon. There is evidence, however, that the Soviets tried to launch a moon rocket a year ago and again four months ago. Both attempts were failures. . . . The Air Force has been authorized to launch two more moon rockets after the Army has had its two tries. If the Army reaches the moon, the Air Force probably will shoot for the planet Venus. . . . The National Education Association warns that the tragic Chicago school fire could be repeated again in most public schools. More than 2,000,000 school children are now being taught in substandard classrooms which average over 50 years old and constitute dangerous fire hazards. Moreover, the floors of many old schools were soaked with linseed oil and other flammable preservatives in years past. Though nonflammable floor wax is now used, the floors in many cases still contain heavy sediments of the old combustible material.

Foreign Flashes

Soviet dictator Khrushchev boasted at an Albanian Embassy reception last week that he will force President Eisenhower to meet him at a "summit" conference within the next six months. Khrushchev said the Russians will cause so many crises that Eisenhower will be glad to sit down and talk with him. . . . The President is trying to warm up to Egypt's dictator Nasser. On the advice of Secretary of State Dulles, Ike is beginning to look on Nasser as the possible answer to communism in the Middle East. Yet Nasser is still accepting massive Russian arms shipments. . . . The Russians have installed the greatest collection of wiretapping and eavesdropping equipment in Berlin that the world has ever seen. Virtually every word, every cable, that allied diplomats write or speak is carefully recorded with the latest electronic devices. The State Department and the Pentagon are trying to jam this equipment electronically. But in the meantime all personnel have been urgently advised not to discuss secrets on the phone or to use the cables for anything except routine messages.

Washington Whirl

Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of Commerce Strauss have been feuding behind the scenes over Soviet trade. Strauss favors increased trade with the Soviet bloc. Dulles fears this would strengthen the Communist economy. They are trying to work out a compromise to submit to President Eisenhower. . . . Vice President Nixon wasn't the only prominent American who wrote Congressman Brooks Hays of Arkansas expressing regret over his defeat by the Fausbuss forces. Hays also received letters from Harry Truman, Adlai Stevenson, and from Mississippi's fair-minded governor, Jim Coleman. . . . Nixon was the only one, however, who leaked his letter to the press. . . . First business firm to offer help in the campaign to rebuild the bombed-out high school in Clinton, Tenn., was the Sunroc Corporation of Pennsylvania, which pledged two water coolers. Others that have offered assistance without seeking recognition include the Structural Clay Products Institute and the American Institute of Timber Construction.

My house . . .

It isn't much. Authors and columnists have big homes. Any boy of 7 could throw a stone over mine without hitting anything. It is pink and black and sits behind a seawall at Sea Bright, N. J. My daughter Gayle named it. The sign on the gatepost says "On The Rocks." Over the seawall there is a stairway leading to a private beach.

The property is 55 feet wide and 224 feet eight inches deep. In front: the Atlantic Ocean. Behind the backyard: the Shrewsbury River. Across the lawn is a white cruller driveway. There is a white marble fountain with a little boy squirting water through the top of his head. Facing the road is a small pink wall with two big black coach lamps on it.

On winter nights, we can hear the deep pounding of the surf and the white pume leaps high over the wall and the wind cuts the head off it and drives it past the yellow glare of the coach lamps. The gales play the corners of the house like a sad harmonica.

The house is old and strong. It has braced itself against the fury of many hurricanes. They are dead and the house isn't. Sometimes a pink shingle rips off the front and goes to the little deserted island on the far side of the river where the wild ducks and the white cranes hide.

This is the first house that I decorated. My wife used to say: "And it looks it." It was, and is, primarily an office. I write here. The back porch is enclosed and is lined with bookshelves and research material. There is a double desk so that my secretary, Mrs. Ralph Walter, and I face each other. There is a calendar, a red phone, some photos of my parents, one of Mark Hellinger, one of my daughter, Ginny and her twin daughters, and a framed letter from William Randolph Hearst Jr.

Two doors seal the office from the rest of the house. Miss Rennie Matthews, dark and handsome, is in the kitchen deciding what kind of groceries to order from Victory Market. The kitchen is pink and white and has a Kenmore electric range and a pink laundry and dryer. The cabinets are made of knotty pine.

The entire interior is knotty pine. When I came here, three years ago, I had a living room and dining room torn into one room and put a big picture window in the back, facing the river and the sunset, and built a bar in front of it.

The bar stools and the furniture are of red leather and off-white. There is a big oil painting of Elinor and her husband and two daughters on one wall. This was done by Roberta Carter after Mrs. B. died. I want the grandchildren to know, when they grow up, how pretty she was.

There is a groundfloor bedroom, a bath, and a shower. This is mine. The motif is green, to match my complexion. The draw drapes are green and keep the morning sun in its place. Upstairs are three bedrooms—one normal and two sub-normal. Gayle has the big one bright with signs like "No Parking," "Mount Hermon" and "Notre Dame" pennants and two or three thousand 45 r.p.m. records—all loud.

There is a bath up there and a few closets and some holy pictures. In the cellar is a guest room, some trophies, a television set and a black convertible couch. The backyard is enclosed by a 6-foot Indian paling fence painted — what else? — pink and black, and a car port.

The old two-car garage is now a guest house. It has black and white metal awnings, a dutch door, a terraced roof with redwood furniture and a view of the river. Under the outside stairway is a shower for those who bring sand back from the beach.

A guest house has a bamboo bar, a TV set, a white convertible couch, and black and white block inlay. There is a pool table, cues, a dart board, some autographed photos of movie stars and two Presidents, and a radio that cannot make up its mind whether it wants to play music or turn on a morning alarm. Behind the guest house is a dock for our boat: Away We Go II. The backyard is flagstoned.

The distance to New York is 50 miles. Running time: 1 hour, 10 minutes.

The house isn't much, but it is not for sale. . . .

Will Brain Trusters Bring Back The New Deal?

Did they have something in their past associations which they were ashamed to reveal? Why would anyone refrain from coming to work in the government—and get "clearance"—if he really had nothing to hide? Such a blanket indictment of the intellectual "elite" seems a little severe. For, while there may have been isolated cases of a guilty conscience, it doesn't seem plausible that it took on the proportions of a mass boycott of government service.

Possibly among the real reasons the "elite" have been reluctant to come back is the fact that the Democratic Party has had among its leaders such non-rational individuals as Senator Lyndon Johnson and Senator Harry Byrd and Speaker Sam Rayburn and forthright John McCormack, floor leader of the House.

It could be that the New Deal "Brain Trusters" of the 1930s have been waiting for a New Dealish President. Some of them tried infiltration in the "modern Republican" wing of the Eisenhower Administration and called for "bold and imaginative" ideas, only to be frustrated when the President mentioned a balanced budget or "creeping socialism" or the menace of inflation.

The New Dealers of the 1930s are somewhat older now, though there is no sign they have become too much tainted with "conservatism." Their only hope is for a New Deal type of President, and it will be recalled that the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote a letter saying that William O. Douglas, whom he had appointed to the Supreme Court in 1939, might be a good candidate for Vice President. This was just before the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1944.

Maybe the time has come to promote justice Douglas to the front line as a presidential candidate. Certainly so far as political philosophy is concerned, he is the clearest exponent of New Dealism in active service today—and he is only 60 and in the prime of intellectual life. Maybe he is the very man to "recreate the conditions" that made the years of the New Deal an "exciting life" for our intelligentsia. Maybe, if elected, he can "man the bastions" and coax the missing "elite" to come back to Washington.

The switchboard of a highly educated man and woman is much more complex than that of a less well informed person. It is loaded with codings, references, and associations. Thus even a small lesion in that part of the brain causes more deprivation than a larger lesion in an illiterate person, whose language ability is limited. Small talk may be retained but not the language that conveys ideas and deep thoughts, witty statements, and abstract thinking.

Military Courtesy Delayed Sending Reinforcements To Formosa Strait

(Editor's note: While Drew Pearson is news-gathering in Mexico, his column is being written by his assistant, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — The long-suppressed story can now be told how military protocol and a slow boat to China delayed critical reinforcements from reaching the Formosa Strait at the height of the Chinese Communist threat.

The reinforcements were ordered by President Eisenhower last August after urgent warnings that the Reds might attack Quemoy, Matsu, and even Formosa itself. The details were left up to the Joint Chiefs of Staff who agreed to rush F-100, F-101 and F-104 fighters to the troubled area.

Going through channels, they flashed a message to Adm. Harry Felt, our Pacific commander, who is supposed to handle all military moves in his bailiwick. But unfortunately, the admiral happened to be away on a cruise. Rather than violate military courtesy, the Joint Chiefs waited for him to return to his headquarters four days later. Yet the emergency was growing more serious by the hour.

Soviets Escort Essex

The Joint Chiefs also decided to move the aircraft carrier Essex from the Mediterranean to the Formosa Strait. Although the orders were received August 25, the carrier didn't arrive until September 16 — 22 days later! It took four days just to reach the

By Jack Anderson

Suez Canal where two Soviet subs waited brazenly to escort it.

By the time the Essex finally showed up, the crisis had cooled off. The big carrier steamed around defiantly for 12 days, then quietly departed the Far East.

The Army was even slower responding to the crisis. A month after a Nike battalion had been ordered to Formosa, it still hadn't reached the port of embarkation in the United States.

Yet the Army and Navy have been beating the drums about their mobility to fight small wars. Of the American firepower that was mustered to meet the Formosa crisis, the Navy supplied less than 10 per cent. The crisis was over before the Army got any significant reinforcements into the area.

The American Embassy has learned that the recent crash of a 65-passenger Soviet jet liner was the third such tragedy. . . . There is evidence, however, that the Soviets tried to launch a moon rocket a year ago and again four months ago. Both attempts were failures. . . . The Air Force has been authorized to launch two more moon rockets after the Army has had its two tries. If the Army reaches the moon, the Air Force probably will shoot for the planet Venus. . . . The National Education Association warns that the tragic Chicago school fire could be repeated again in most public schools. But in the meantime all personnel have been urged to discuss secrets on the phone or to use the cables for anything except routine messages.

My house . . .

It isn't much. Authors and columnists have big homes. Any boy of 7 could throw a stone over mine without hitting anything. It is pink and black and sits behind a seawall at Sea Bright, N. J. My daughter Gayle named it. The sign on the gatepost says "On The Rocks." Over the seawall there is a stairway and a pink and black pavilion leading to a private beach.

The property is 55 feet wide and 224 feet eight inches deep. In front: the Atlantic Ocean. Behind the backyard: the Shrewsbury River. Across the lawn is a white cruller driveway. There is a white marble fountain with a little boy squirting water through the top of his head. Facing the road is a small pink wall with two big black coach lamps on it.

On winter nights, we can hear the deep pounding of the surf and the white pume leaps high over the wall and the wind cuts the head off it and drives it past the yellow glare of the coach lamps. The gales play the corners of the house like a sad harmonica.

The house is old and strong. It has braced itself against the fury of many hurricanes. They are dead and the house isn't. Sometimes a pink shingle rips off the front and goes to the little deserted island on the far side of the river where the wild ducks and the white cranes hide.

This is the first house that I decorated. My wife used to say: "And it looks it." It was, and is, primarily an office. I write here. The back porch is enclosed and is lined with bookshelves and research material. There is a double desk so that my secretary, Mrs. Ralph Walter, and I face each other. There is a calendar, a red phone, some photos of my parents, one of Mark Hellinger, one of my daughter, Ginny and her twin daughters, and a framed letter from William Randolph Hearst Jr.

Two doors seal the office from the rest of the house. Miss Renie Matthews, dark and handsome, is in the kitchen deciding what kind of groceries to order from Victory Market. The kitchen is pink and white and has a Kenmore electric range and a pink laundry and dryer. The cabinets are made of knotty pine.

The entire interior is knotty pine. When I came here, three years ago, I had a living room and dining room torn into one room and put a big picture window in the back, facing the river and the sunset, and built a bar in front of it.

The bar stools and the furniture are of red leather and off-white. There is a big oil painting of Elinor and her husband and two daughters on one wall. This was done by Roberta Carter after Mrs. B. died. I want the grandchildren to know, when they grow up, how pretty she was.

There is a groundfloor bedroom, a bath, and a shower. This is mine. The motif is green, to match my complexion. The draw drapes are green and keep the morning sun in its place. Upstairs are three bedrooms — one normal and two sub-normal. Gayle has the big one bright with signs like "No Parking," "Mount Hermon" and "Notre Dame" pennants and two or three thousand 45 r.p.m. records — all loud.

There is a bath up there and a few closets and some holy pictures. In the cellar is a guest room, some trophies, a television set and a black convertible couch. The backyard is enclosed by a 6-foot Indian paling fence painted — what else? — pink and black, and a car port.

The old two-car garage is now a guest house. It has black and white metal awnings, a dutch door, a terraced roof with redwood furniture and a view of the river. Under the outside stairway is a shower for those who bring sand back from the beach.

The guest house has a bamboo bar, a TV set, a white convertible couch, and black and white block inlay. There is a pool table, cues, a dart board, some autographed photos of movie stars and two Presidents, and a radio that cannot make up its mind whether it wants to play music or turn on a morning alarm. Behind the guest house is a dock for our boat: Away We Go II. The backyard is flagstoned.

The distance to New York is 50 miles. Running time: 1 hour, 10 minutes.

The house isn't much, but it is not for sale . . .

Bears Whip Cards, 30-14

Pile Up 30-0 Lead, Coast To 7th Win

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears fully exploited Chicago Cardinals' miscues and George Blanda's accurate toe for a 30 to 14 victory in frigid, snow-powdered Wrigley Field Sunday.

The Bears bowled to a 30-0 half-time margin. Then, they coasted to their seventh victory against four defeats for a second place tie with Los Angeles in the National Football League's Western Division.

While the Cardinals were making the costlier fumbles in the 13-degree weather and throwing errant passes, the Bears struck quickly, and from long range, for their scores—including field goals of 45, 43, 24 yards by Blanda.

The opening score in this longest of pro football rivalries—this was the 71st meeting of the two clubs—came on an 86-yard touchdown run by the Bears' Charley Sumner. He scooped up a Joe Childress fumble with the game little more than two minutes old.

A 66-yard pass from Ed Brown to Rocky Ryan set up a one-yard scoring plunge by Brown, and Brown's 14-yard touchdown pass to Rick Casares gave the Bears a 24-0 lead with the game not quite 17 minutes gone.

The usual bitterness in this civic rivalry broke out early. On a Cardinal punt, Erick Barnes and J. C. Caroline of the Bears took turns sparring with Ken Gray. Card rookie, No solid bows were landed, but Barnes and Gray were ejected from the game.

Cardinals — TD. Sears (2-pass from Reynolds), Childress (6-pass from Reynolds), PAT, Conrad 2.

Bears—TD, Sumner (recovered fumble and ran 86 yards), Brown (1-plunge); Casares (14-pass from Brown), PAG, Blanda 3, FG, Blanda (45, 43, 24).

Gunners And Archers Slay 1,603 Deer In Region No. 1

Garrett Total Tops With 687; Allegany County Bag Is 592

A total of 1,603 deer were slain by gunners and bow and arrow hunters this year in Region No. 1, comprising the counties of Garrett, Allegany and Washington, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

The gunners bagged 1,572 in the three counties during the six-day season which ended Saturday while archers accounted for 31 during the special 12-day season this year.

Garrett County's 6-day total hit 678 when 79 whitetails fell before hunters' guns on Saturday. Sixty-two were bagged on the final day in Allegany County, upping the total to 584, and 31 were checked in Washington County for a season total of 310, a new record.

The all-time marks for Garrett and Allegany counties are 698 and 623, established in 1957. Washington County's previous high was 289.

Minke pointed out that 176 of the 584 deer killed in Allegany County last week were taken only short distances from Cumberland. Seventy-one were bagged on Dan's Mountain, 34 on Will's Mountain, a "stone's throw" from the city, 19 on Piney Mountain near LaVale, 22 on Elvitt's Mountain, east of the city, 23 on the Allegany County side of Savage Mountain and seven on Shriver's Ridge.

The youngest nimrod to shoot a deer in Allegany County last week was Randy Holler, 10, fifth grade pupil of SS. Peter and Paul School, who brought down a 4-point, 95-pounder at Piney Ridge, the first day of the season.

Here's a breakdown on the deer kill in Region One this year:

NEW YORK (UPI) — Enos Slaughter Mickey Vernon . . . Ted Williams . . . Pee Wee Reese . . . they're all that's left of the old gang of regulars in the major leagues when the bombs dropped at Pearl Harbor 17 years ago Sunday.

And one of that number—Pee Wee — is undecided whether to take one more twirl as an active player or switch to a coaching job with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

A whole generation of big leaguers has come and gone since Enos, Mickey, Ted and Pee Wee were part of the old pre-Pearl Harbor crowd. But these are men who always took care of themselves and the results are apparent in their longevity records.

Slaughter, now a Yankee, has made it into the exclusive 20-year class. Ted will join him next Memorial Day, all with the Boston Red Sox. Vernon, now at Cleveland, and Reese both came up to stay in 1940.

Only five other players still active saw even part-time service in the majors before World War II.

Musial A Rookie

In the fall of that fateful year, Stan Musial came up to the Cardinals and astonished one and all by swatting a .426 in his 12 September games. Early Wynn of the White Sox breezed up the Cardinals and posted a 3-1 record (two) in his five late starts. Virgil (at Cincy), Cookie Lavagetto (Trucks of the Yankees pitched exactly two innings for the Tigers. Joe Gordon of the Indians (a Hank Sauer of the Giants got into nine games at Cincy and Jim Hegan of the Phils caught 16 games for Cleveland.

Only 12 others were in professional baseball at all.

Hank Bauer, now a Yankee vet, was a rookie at Oshkosh, helped drive the Dodgers to Wis., in 1941. Carl Furillo of the pennant.

Dodgers gave his all for Reading, Pa. Andy Panko of the Braves played his second pro season with Green Bay, Wis., and Del Rice of the Braves made it his first with Williamson, W. Va.

Earl Torgeson of the White Sox started at Wenatchee, Wash., and wound up 1941 with Seattle. Gene Woodling of Baltimore split the season between Charleston, W. Va., and St. Mich.

Sal Maglie of the Cardinals and Murry Dickson of the Yankees were established minor leaguers by that time but Warren Spahn of the Braves was at Evansville, Ind., for his second pro year.

Marv Grissom of the Giants was a rookie at San Bernardino, Calif., and Alex Kellner of the Athletics was breaking in at Tucson, Ariz. Haney Managed Browns

A long time ago? Certainly it was.

Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers was player-manager at Springfield, Mass., and led his league with 25 homers. Bob Schefling, now Cub manager, was a Cub rookie. Ted Haney of the Braves managed the St. Louis Browns and Casey Stengel of the Yankees managed the Braves of Boston.

Bill Rigney of the Giants was breaking in at Oakland. Danny Murtha of the Pirates was a Philly rookie. Among the regulars who were at Cincy were Al Lopez of the White Sox (at Pittsburgh), Mike Higgins of the Red Sox (at Detroit), Harry Craft of the Athletics (at Cincy), Cookie Lavagetto of the Senators (at Brooklyn), Joe Gordon of the Indians (a Hank Sauer of the Giants got into nine games at Cincy and Jim Hegan of the Phils caught 16 games for Cleveland.

Archie Moore Is 14-5 Choice Over Durelle

Light-Heavy Title Go Set Wednesday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Archie Moore, 41, makes his seventh defense of the world light-heavyweight championship against Canadian Yvon Durelle at the Montreal Forum, Wednesday night, in the week's outstanding fight.

It will be Archie's first defense since Sept. 20, 1957, when he stopped Tony Anthony in the seventh round.

Because of his punch, Archie is favored at 14-5 to beat the 29-year-old champion of Canada and the British Empire. Archie was unbeaten in his last 15 bouts although held to a draw by Howard King in his latest start on Aug. 4.

Their scheduled 15-rounder will be televised in the United States and Canada by ABC at 10 p.m. e.s.t. It will be the only TV fight of the week. A bowling tournament will use Friday night's usual TV fight time, for a one-night stand.

Featherweight contenders Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio, and Ricardo Moreno of Mexico City will fight Thursday night at Los Angeles at the Olympic Auditorium for a shot at the 126-pound crown.

Meanwhile, the featherweight champion—Hogan Kid Bassey of Nigeria — will engage Mexican Ernesto Parra in a non-title 10-rounder at the Hollywood, Calif., Stadium on Saturday night.

A 35-yard pass play executed by George McGregor and Bill Eckard gave the Old Exports a touchdown in the second period. They knotted the score in the last quarter when McGregor passed 20 yards to Fred Meeks for the TD and Jerry Meeks snared McGregor's aerial for the extra point.

Wageley's team completed the season with an 8-0 record. The Clowns won the National Division title with a 6-0 mark while the Exports (6-0) capped the American Division title and were 7-0 going into the championship battle.

Skins Hold Steelers To 14-14 Draw

Layne's TD Passes Atone For Trouble Early In Contest

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bobby Layne hurled the Pittsburgh Steelers to a comeback 14-14 tie with the Washington Redskins Sunday on sharpshooting last-half touchdowns to rookie Jim Orr and veteran Jack McClinton.

The scoring pitches atoned for the trouble Layne caused the Steelers in the first half when Bert Zagers intercepted two of his tosses and the Redskins swiftly moved to touchdowns.

Washington's attack collapsed after the intermission and its 14-0 lead vanished as Layne found the range.

The Redskins flubbed a chance to go ahead in the last two minutes when a drive carried to the Steeler 21. Sam Baker's field goal attempt into the wind from the 29 sailed wide.

Tom Miner tried a boot for the Steelers from Washington's 48 with 10 seconds remaining but the ball fell far short.

Don Bosseler scored twice for the Redskins on bulging runs over Pittsburgh's left end for 7 and 2 yards in the second period.

Layne's third-quarter touchdown pass to Orr covered 55 yards. After six minutes of the last period the Steelers darted in eight plays from Baker's worst punt of the season to the standoff score—a 28-yard pass which McClinton grabbed in the end zone.

Baker, the National Football League's top punter, let the crucial punt slide off his foot and it traveled only 12 yards from scrimmage before going out on Pittsburgh's 38. Before the fatal punt Baker had walloped the ball 64 and 56 yards into the Steeler end zone.

The deadlock combined with Cleveland's victory over Philadelphia, ended all Pittsburgh hopes of an Eastern Conference title.

By PAUL K. LEE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three pass interceptions and a fumble recovery gave the San Francisco 49ers four fast first period touchdowns and they coasted to a 48-21 victory over the hapless Green Bay Packers in a National Football League game Sunday.

A cheerful crowd of 50,792 witnessed the rout under sunny skies. 49er coach Frank Albert used his reserves throughout the last three quarters.

The Packers, hopelessly mired in the Western Conference cellar with only one victory all season, never gave up but never were in contention this afternoon.

The victory gave the 49ers a 5-6 record and elevated them to fourth place in the standings.

As 49er scout Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf remarked: "It was a nice relaxing afternoon. I like that kind."

Pittsburgh Cagers Make 33 Field Goals To Notch Easy Win

Bears Whip Cards, 30-14

Pile Up 30-0 Lead, Coast To 7th Win

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears fully exploited Chicago Cardinals' mistakes and George Blanda's accurate toe for a 30 to 14 victory in frigid, snow-powdered Wrigley Field Sunday.

The Bears bowled to a 30-0 half-time margin. Then, they coasted to their seventh victory against four defeats for a second place tie with Los Angeles in the National Football League's Western Division.

While the Cardinals were making the costlier fumbles in the 13-degree weather and throwing errant passes, the Bears struck quickly, and from long range, for their scores—including field goals of 45, 43, 24 yards by Blanda.

The opening score in this longest of pro football rivalries—this was the 71st meeting of the two clubs—came on an 86-yard touchdown run by the Bears' Charley Sumner. He scooped up a Joe Childress fumble with the game little more than two minutes off.

A 66-yard pass from Ed Brown to Rocky Ryan set up a one-yard scoring plunge by Brown, and Brown's 14-yard touchdown pass to Rick Casares gave the Bears a 24-0 lead with the game not quite 17 minutes gone.

The usual bitterness in this civic rivalry broke out early. On a Cardinal punt, Erick Barnes and J. C. Caroline of the Bears took turns sparring with Ken Gray, Card rookie. No solid bows were landed, but Barnes and Gray were ejected from the game.

A total of 1,603 deer were slain by gunners and bow and arrow hunters this year in Region No. 1, comprising the counties of Garrett, Allegany and Washington, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

The gunners bagged 1,572 in the three counties during the six-day season which ended Saturday while archers accounted for 31 during the special 12-day season this year.

Garrett County's 6-day total hit 678 when 79 whitetails fell before hunters' guns on Saturday. Sixty-two were bagged on the final day in Allegany County, upping the total to 584, and 31 were checked in Washington County for a season total of 310, a new record.

The all-time marks for Garrett and Allegany counties are 698 and 623, established in 1957. Washington County's previous high was 289.

Minke pointed out that 176 of the 584 deer killed in Allegany County last week were taken only short distances from Cumberland. Seventy-one were bagged on Dan's Mountain, 34 on Will's Mountain, a "stone's throw" from the city, 19 on Piney Mountain near LaVale, 22 on Everts Mountain, east of the city, 23 on the Allegany County side of Savage Mountain and seven on Shriver's Ridge.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Enos Slaughter Mickey Vernon . . . Ted Williams . . . Pee Wee Reese . . . they're all that's left of the old gang of regulars in the major leagues when the bombs dropped at Pearl Harbor 17 years ago Sunday.

And one of that number—Pee Wee—is undecided whether to take one more turn as an active player or switch to a coaching job with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

A whole generation of big leaguers has come and gone since Enos, Mickey, Ted and Pee Wee were part of the old pre-Pearl Harbor crowd. But these are men who always took care of themselves and the results are apparent in their longevity records.

Slaughter, now a Yankee, has made it into the exclusive 20-year club. Ted will join him next Memorial Day, all with the Boston Red Sox. Vernon, now at Cleveland, and Reese both came up to stay in 1940.

Only five other players still active saw even part-time service in the majors before World War II.

Archie Moore Is 14-5 Choice Over Durelle

Light-Heavy Title Go Set Wednesday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Archie Moore, 41, makes his seventh defense of the world light heavy-weight championship against Canadian Yvon Durelle at the Montreal Forum, Wednesday night, in the week's outstanding fight.

It will be Archie's first defense since Sept. 20, 1957, when he stopped Tony Anthony in the seventh round.

Because of his punch, Archie is favored at 14-5 to beat the 29-year-old champion of Canada and the British Empire. Archie was unbeaten in his last 15 bouts although held to a draw by Howard King in his latest start on Aug. 4.

Their scheduled 15-rounder will be televised in the United States and Canada by ABC at 10 p.m. e.s.t. It will be the only TV fight of the week. A bowling tournament will use Friday night's usual TV fight time, for a one-night stand.

Featherweight contenders Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio, and Ricardo Moreno of Mexico City will fight Thursday night at Los Angeles at the Olympic Auditorium for a shot at the 126-pound crown.

Meanwhile, the featherweight champion—Hogan Kid Bassey of Nigeria—will engage Mexican Ernesto Parra in a non-title 10-rounder at the Hollywood, Calif., Stadium on Saturday night.

Wageley's Clowns won the championship of the Adult Touch Football League yesterday by edging the Old Exports at Post Field by the score of 14-13.

The Clowns took a 13-0 lead in the second period when Roy Manges passed 10 yards to Clarence "Pooch" Lewis in the end zone and Manges ran six yards for the second touchdown. Roy passed to Lewis for the extra point.

A 35-yard pass play executed by George McGregor and Bill Eckard gave the Old Exports a touchdown in the second period. They knotted the score in the last quarter when McGregor passed 20 yards to Fred Meeks for the TD and Jerry Meeks snared McGregor's aerial for the extra point.

Wageley's team completed the season with an 8-0 record. The Clowns won the National Division title with a 6-0 mark while the Exports (6-0) copped the American Division title and were 7-0 going into the championship battle.

Layne's TD Passes Atoned For Trouble Early In Contest

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bobby Layne hurled the Pittsburgh Steelers to a comeback 14-14 tie with the Washington Redskins Sunday on sharpshooting last-half touchdown passes to rookie Jim Orr and veteran Jack Mc Claren.

The scoring pitches atoned for the trouble Layne caused the Steelers in the first half when Bert Zagers intercepted two of his tosses and the Redskins swiftly moved to touchdowns.

Washington's attack collapsed after the intermission and its 14-0 lead vanished as Layne found the range.

The Redskins flubbed a chance to go ahead in the last two minutes when a drive carried to the Steel 21. Sam Baker's field goal attempt into the wind from the 29 sailed wide.

Tom Miner tried a boot for the Steelers from Washington's 48 with 10 seconds remaining but the ball fell far short.

Don Bosseler scored twice for the Redskins on bulging runs over Pittsburgh's left end for 7 and 2 yards in the second period.

Layne's third-quarter touchdown pass to Orr covered 55 yards. After six minutes of the last period the Steelers darted in eight plays from Baker's worst punt of the season to the standoff score—a 28-yard pass which Mc Claren grabbed in the end zone.

Baker, the National Football League's top punter, let the crucial punt slide off his foot and it traveled only 12 yards from scrimmage before going out on Pittsburgh's 38. Before the fatal punt Baker had walloped the ball 64 and 56 yards into the Steeler end zone.

The deadlock combined with Cleveland's victory over Philadelphia, ended all Pittsburgh hopes of an Eastern Conference title.

West Virginia, Kentucky And N.C. State Stand Out

WVU And Wolfpack Notch Third Wins Over Lions, Deacons

By JOE SARGIS
United Press International

It may be a new basketball season, but the same old teams are doing business at the same old stand.

West Virginia, the defending national champion, breezed to its third straight victory as did perennial contender North Carolina State, while Kentucky, the 1957-58 NCAA champion, picked up its second in a row to highlight Saturday's collegiate program, which for the most part ran true to form.

The Mountaineers, who lost only two of 28 games last season, are building up a good head of steam toward matching that mark. In order they beat neighborhood rivals Furman and Virginia Military and then added Penn State, 78-63. Jerry West was the hotshot for the winners with 24 points.

North Carolina State had to work a little harder against Wake Forest, but in the end had too many guns—John Richter and Lou Puccio—for a 56-32 overtime decision.

Kentucky Downs Temple
Adolph Rupp's men from Lexington, Ky., showed a crowd of more than 6,000 in Philadelphia's Palestra some of their championship form in handing Temple a 76-71 beating. Johnny Cox was Kentucky's No. 1 marksman, scoring 15 points in a tight second half and 22 in all.

Kansas and Kansas State, the year-in-year-out Midlands powers, ran their records to 2-0 with convincing victories along with such other national pretenders as St. Louis, St. Joseph's (Pa.) and Northwestern, while Mississippi State, a brand new Southern power, chalked up its third straight triumph.

Didn't Miss Suit
Kansas had too much height and speed for inexperienced Cincinnati and didn't even miss Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain for an early 75-54 victory in Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium. Ron Loneski, the Jayhawkers' big man to s s e c in 30 points, mostly on left-handed hook shots.

"Hobby House" Is Collector's Paradise

Visitors to the "Hobby House", newest addition to Harold Warp's Pioneer Village, located at Minden, Nebraska, stand enthralled before the showcases containing a virtual "collector's collection". More than 5,000 items, representing 30 separate collections, have been gathered from every state and many foreign countries.

Besides the more usual collections — canes, hatpins, trivets, model trains, buttons, arrowheads, belt buckles, etc. — there are also such seldom-seen assortments as night-caps, glass slippers, miniature night lamps, spittoons and cigar clippers.

Hours of painstaking hand-work went into the collection of tiny, exquisite baskets carved from peach-pits. From Bavaria have come ornate beer steins. Gorgeous fans, once fluttered by celebrated charmers, are on view. Fancy combs which

DEATH ACCIDENTAL

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI)—There is no indication the death last week of Del. Irvine Saunders (D-McDowell) was anything but accidental. State Police reported Monday. Saunders, 44, died of a broken neck and authorities said the injury probably was caused in a fall at his apartment.

Aim high in popularity. Miss Teen—past the whirl you're in now.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Make Your Popularity Last

To the teen-age girl, popularity often seems the most important thing in the world. She feels that it puts her in solid with her world. But there can be something very hollow about it, and the girl who bids for it too anxiously, in too many ways toward too many people is bound to find this out.

Just how deep is your popularity Miss Teen? No deeper than hellos from everybody, a jingling telephone, exciting rushes at dances? I'd be very misguided if I said that these things do not is that it won't satisfy you forever, and I want to ask you a few questions. They just might point the way to putting your popularity on a steadier basis.

Is no more than gay chatter ever directed your way? Do people ever really talk to you, about serious things and seem to listen to your replies? Are important matters ever confided to you? Life will burst out of this butterfly stage before too long, and a lot of frothy conversation will go with it. You'll learn that a few people will mean a lot, and you'll want to be the girl they seek when they really have something to say.

Are you treading pretty carefully on tender feelings in your maneuverings to front and center position? Are you passing up worthwhile friends for acquaintances with more outside glitter? You may have lost some of those you really want to count on already, and need to pull up short and mend your fences with others.

Are people misjudging you because you create too gay and careless an impression? Don't be too sure that anyone will remember your best deeper qualities and abilities if you hide them. Some day you'll want a job very badly, or to appeal to someone important and a reputation for frivolity will work against you.

Luke Local 676 Plans Vote On Contract Offer

Report Sessions Slated Tomorrow

A special election will be held this week by Luke Local 676, United Papermakers and Paperworkers, AFL-CIO, for ratification or strike action in connection with a contract offer made by West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company for its Luke, Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa., mills.

Special membership meetings are scheduled by the Luke local tomorrow to explain the company's offer.

The Local 676 negotiating committee, headed by Wilbur Johnson, president, reported that contract negotiations between West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and Locals 675, 676 and 677 were broken off in Washington last week.

The special report meetings for members of the Luke local will be held tomorrow at noon and 4:30 p. m. in the Welsh Theatre in Westernport.

International representatives of the UPP, along with the negotiating committee will be present to explain to the members what the committee termed the company's "final offer."

The committee said a special election will be held Wednesday, December 10, at the Devon Club in Luke "for ratification or strike action."

Vote Is Secret

Polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. and the vote will be by secret ballot, the committee said. Negotiations on a new contract for the three mills broke off Friday night after a company spokesman said its $750,000 contract package was its final offer.

Harry E. Scott, UPP vice president and top union negotiator, said the union negotiators would report the outcome of the meeting to the 3,500 members of the three unions.

The contract offered at Luke includes wage increases ranging from four to 11 cents an hour and other benefits and runs until November 17, 1959.

15 SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

Youth Group Winds Up Conference

Delegates Borrow Bus To Return Home

The final session of the YMCA Youth Conference here yesterday was devoted to an analysis of the previous two days of the program, before the 250 visiting delegates closed the conference and returned home.

The afternoon program yesterday was held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church under the chairmanship of Edward Van Zant of Towson, youth secretary of the Baltimore YMCA.

The visitors were guests at the homes of 90 Cumberland families and attended church services yesterday morning with their hosts. The afternoon session began at 2 p. m. and concluded about 3:30 p. m.

Delegates from Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y units throughout Maryland and from Wilmington, Del., and Millville, N.J., attended the three-day conference.

The general theme of the conference was "Individualism versus Conformity" and group discussions and supervised skits were held during the conference.

A social program was held Saturday night with a dinner opening the evening's events. A dance and talent show was featured in the YMCA gymnasium.

B. U. Smith, general secretary of the host Central YMCA, left yesterday afternoon with a bus borrowed from the Allegany County Board of Education to take the Annapolis delegation home.

The Annapolis bus broke down on the trip to Cumberland Friday and the group was returned home yesterday in the borrowed vehicle.

Local Airmen Take Part In Airlift From Beirut

Two local area men were among eight Marylanders with the US Air Force who participated in the recent 322nd Air Division airlift of the 24th Infantry Division from Beirut, Lebanon to their Army posts in the Augsburg-Munich region of southern Germany.

1st Lt. William L. Brehany, 28, a native of Cumberland and a son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Brehany, Carpenters Addition, Ridgeley, W. Va., was a pilot of one of the planes.

Airman third class Richard E. Scarlett, 20, whose wife lives at 212 Polk Street here, was one of the 25 maintenance technicians from the 317th Consolidated Maintenance Squadron sent to Beirut to keep the big C-130s and C-124s humming.

Air Force officials said that as a result of their skill and efforts a Lockheed C-130 turboprop took off on schedule less than every two hours. Scarlett is an engine specialist, and is credited with skilled and accurate service of the big planes for their long flight. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon V. Scarlett, Cash Valley Road here, and his wife, Beverly, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Holcomb, 212 Polk Street.

Lt. Brehany graduated from Ridgeley High School, class of 1948, and was a member of the school's football team. He then attended Virginia Military Institute where he also played football as a quarterback and was nominated for All-America quarterback. He graduated in 1953 and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force ROTC. He has been serving with the Air Force since then. About a year ago he was sent to the European Theatre and his wife and three-year-old son, William Scott Brehany, are residing at Evreux-Fauville Air Force Base, near Paris, France. Mrs. Brehany is the former Miss Betty Scott Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mills, Fayette Street.

The Air Force reported that it took about a week to move 1,279 tons of equipment and 2,203 troops from Beirut International Airport to Brindisi, Italy, a refueling point, and then on to Fürstenfeldbruck Air Base, Germany where the troops and equipment were unloaded.

Police here received a report that a car bearing Pennsylvania license tags had been parked illegally near Central YMCA for two days and permission was obtained to tow the vehicle to a North Centre Street parking lot.

There it was discovered that the guns and other items had been placed on the floor of the automobile under a blanket.

Lt. Van said he arrested the two men at a local hotel on a hunch. He checked the register, found two men from Pennsylvania registered and took them into custody. He said one of them had registered under his right name, but the other used an alias.

Pennsylvania police at Bedford said Robinette had been in the Army in Germany until he was discharged six months ago. Hockenberry, married and the father of a child, reportedly was employed on his father's farm.

Record Number Of Tax Forms To Be Mailed

A record number of federal income tax forms will be mailed out this month to residents of the Baltimore collection district, which includes the Cumberland area.

Irving Machiz, acting district director of the Internal Revenue Service, has announced 1,316,962 tax returns (Forms 1040 and 1040A) for area taxpayers will be placed in the mail this month.

Mr. Machiz said the annual job of designing the tax forms has been completed by the forms committee of the Washington headquarters of the Revenue Service, and that the presses of the Government Printing Office are now turning out the forms.

He also said returns for the Baltimore district taxpayers alone will require 124,720 pounds of paper. This is enough paper to make a single sheet that would cover over 215 acres.

A revised Form 1040A, allowing most taxpayers with an income of less than $10,000 from salary or wages to file on the simple card form, was announced by the Revenue Service. The former limit was $5,000.

Associated Charities Toy Center Plans Open House

The Associated Charities is issuing invitations to its many friends to inspect the Associated Charities Toy Workshop at 13 Frederick Street this week.

Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary, said the CUF agency for the past few months has been accepting used toys.

Some were delivered in deplorable condition, she said, but have been made usable by being washed, repaired and painted.

The Marine Corps Reserve Units, Scouts, schools, churches, labor groups, individuals and all service organizations have helped make the project possible, Miss Bonig said.

The toyroom at 13 Frederick Street, next to the Police Department, she said, will be open from today through December 14, and all friends of the agency are invited to visit the workshop and see what has been accomplished toward giving hundreds of tots a merrier Christmas.

"Please just open the door and browse around Toyland," Miss Bonig said.

Families will be given the toys next week and appointments are being made December 14-18 for the parents.

As usual, the Associated Charities will try to provide one large toy and several smaller ones for each needy child, and attempts will be made to provide what the children want for Christmas.

Visitors to the Associated Charities' Toyland will see that there should be plenty of toys for everyone.

In fact, it is the best year yet for toys, Miss Bonig reported in thanking all those who aided in the project.

Last year the CUF agency had some 10,000 toys to distribute and this year's final count will exceed that by a thousand or so.

The toys on hand include over a dozen boys' wagons, a sizable airplane model collection, a toy train, dozens of cars, fire trucks and similar smaller toys and about two dozen tricycles.

At least 100 pistols are on hand for young TV fans.

For girls, there are hundreds of dolls, dozen of beds, baby buggies and doll furniture. A sizable collection of children's kitchen furniture will delight young homemakers.

Contracts Take Effect April 15

New conservation reserve contracts now being signed by farmers in Maryland will in general become effective on April 15, 1959, according to Julius P. Parran, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

All conservation reserve contracts require that the land included be devoted to grass, trees, or a water or wildlife conservation practice. If the conservation practice to be used on the designated land is performed before April 15, the contract becomes effective at the time the practice is started.

This means that 1958 crops on land put in the conservation reserve this fall can be harvested before the contract goes into effect. In addition, the land put in the reserve for the first time this fall may be grazed until the contract goes into effect.

After the contract goes into effect the farmer agrees not to graze the land or harvest a crop from it. He also agrees to refrain from harvesting Christmas trees and ornamentals from conservation reserve land on which forest trees have been planted.

Today, the program of the electric power companies is comprised of 15 announced nuclear plant construction projects involving company investments of over $500,000,000.

Nuclear research, development and study projects are also under way and are expected to lead eventually into

Associated Charities Toy Center Plans Open House

The Associated Charities is issuing invitations to its many friends to inspect the Associated Charities Toy Workshop at 13 Frederick Street this week.

Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary, said the CUF agency for the past few months has been accepting used toys.

Some were delivered in deplorable condition, she said, but have been made usable by being washed, repaired and painted.

The Marine Corps Reserve Units, Scouts, schools, churches, labor groups, individuals and all service organizations have helped make the project possible, Miss Bonig said.

The toyroom at 13 Frederick Street, next to the Police Department, she said, will be open from today through December 14, and all friends of the agency are invited to visit the workshop and see what has been accomplished toward giving hundreds of toys a merrier Christmas.

"Please just open the door and browse around Toyland," Miss Bonig said.

Families will be given the toys next week and appointments are being made December 14-18 for the parents.

As usual, the Associated Charities will try to provide one large toy and several smaller ones for each needy child, and attempts will be made to provide what the children want for Christmas.

Visitors to the Associated Charities' Toyland will see that there should be plenty of toys for everyone.

In fact, it is the best year yet for toys, Miss Bonig reported in thanking all those who aided in the project.

Last year the CUF agency had some 10,000 toys to distribute and this year's final count will exceed that by a thousand or so.

The toys on hand include over a dozen boys' wagons, a sizable airplane model collection, a toy train, dozens of cars, fire trucks and similar smaller toys and about two dozen tricycles.

At least 100 pistols are on hand for young TV fans.

For girls, there are hundreds of dolls, dozens of beds, baby buggies and doll furniture. A sizable collection of children's kitchen furniture will delight young homemakers.

PE Takes Part In Nuclear Power Plan

East Central Group
Is Planning Plant

The Potomac Edison Company is one of the 123 electric power companies in the United States participating in a broad industry program aimed at achieving economic production of nuclear power.

The companies have three plants in operation, six plants under construction or contract, six plants in various stages of planning, and 12 research, development and study projects.

The East Central Nuclear Group, of which the Potomac Edison Company is a member, is planning to build a 50,000 kilowatt plant in the Florida West Coast area.

It will have a gas cooled, heavy water moderated reactor and will cost about $34,898,000. The plant is scheduled to go into operation in 1963.

Electric power companies in the United States have taken an active interest in atomic energy from the time the existence of the nuclear chain reaction became generally known.

Get Go Ahead Before 1954, the electric power companies began forming groups to study the possibilities of nuclear power development.

When Congress passed a new Atomic Energy Act, the companies embarked on nuclear projects which comprise a broad industry program aimed at making atomic energy a practical, economically competitive source of fuel.

Today, the program of the electric power companies is comprised of 15 announced nuclear plant construction projects involving company investments of over $500,000,000.

Nuclear research, development and study projects are also under way and are expected to lead eventually into nuclear power plant construction projects.

Research Planned One of the projects is a multi-million dollar research program in the field of controlled thermonuclear reactions.

Objectives include the achievement of atomic power competitive with other fuel during the next 10 years and "competitive nuclear power for friendly foreign nations during the next five years."

Nearest project to this area is the Duquesne Light Company's atomic energy plant at Shippingport, Pa. It has a pressurized type of reactor owned by the Atomic Energy Commission, and a capacity of 50,000 kilowatts.

The utility firm has an estimated $23,000,000 investment in the plant which went into operation last December.

One of other two plans uses a boiling water reactor and the other a sodium graphite reactor.

The United States has large reserves of fossil fuels, particularly coal, but the reserves are not inexhaustible.

Demands for energy for all purposes are expected to increase, greatly over the years and it is apparent, the companies believe, that a new source of energy will eventually be required.
